

Eager to begin your teaching career?

Learn more about an NYSED Internship Certificate and join NYC Public Schools!

 What is an Internship Certificate?

An Internship Certificate is a two-year certificate for those who have completed at least 50% of an approved graduate program leading to an Initial Certificate.

 Where can I teach with an Internship Certificate?

With a valid Internship Certificate or a letter from your school confirming that you are eligible for an Internship Certificate, you can apply to NYC Public Schools teaching positions in your certification area.

Citywide, there is the greatest need in these subject areas: English as a New Language, Science, Math, World Languages, Bilingual Education, and Students with Disabilities. In the Bronx and Brooklyn, there may also be a need for teachers in other subject areas.

 How can I learn more about the program?

Reach out to your college or university's certification office to find out if you are eligible for an Internship Certificate. Learn more about this certificate type from NYSED here.

 I have an Internship Certificate, what's next?

Complete the NYC Online Teacher Application today to get started. Select Internship as your certification type and upload an eligibility letter from your college or university as supporting documentation.

Visit the NYC DOE InfoHub for a checklist of requirements you will need to complete before you can start teaching in the NYC DOE, such as training and fingerprinting.